Brandon Foley's Bio

Brandon Foley currently serves as the HBCU (Historically Black Colleges and Universities) Recruiting Manager for Mastercard on the North America Campus Recruitment team. In this capacity, he passionately advocates for HBCU students while also spearheading efforts to cultivate an inclusive workforce. Brandon is an alumnus of Tennessee State University (TSU), graduating with his Bachelor's in Business Administration with honors in 2008.

Before completing his degree at TSU, Brandon secured an internship opportunity with the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) in the Washington, DC area. During his distinguished 15-year career with the CIA, Brandon held various pivotal roles, contributing significantly to the Agency's mission.

Driven by his fervor for education, Brandon established a scholarship endowment at TSU in 2016, reflecting his commitment to supporting aspiring scholars. Additionally, he is a loyal lifetime member of the TSU National Alumni Association and has served as the Recruitment Chairperson for the Washington, DC Alumni Chapter for over a decade, fostering engagement and building connections within the TSU community.

Brandon's motto, "helping someone along the way", underscores his commitment to empowering the next generation. As a mentor in the College Bound, Inc. mentoring program in Washington, DC, Brandon not only imparts valuable guidance but also serves as a tangible role model for aspiring youth, embodying the principles of leadership and service. His mandate of supporting and uplifting others reflects his belief in the transformative power of mentorship and community engagement. Moreover, Brandon has generously shared his knowledge by tutoring with the Education ministry at his church in the DC area, showcasing his unwavering dedication to education and his commitment to making a positive impact within his community.
